OBITUARY

JAMES HENRY BAINES

Harry as he was known to everyone attended hundreds of congresses over the years and had a knack of keeping members of the Chess world under control.

He was best known throughout the chess world as the chief controller for the B.C.F. and in that capacity ran the recently held annual congress at Plymouth in early August where the entries totalled 993. He was also chief controller of the general section of the Hastings International Congress where the annual entry was around 400.

He was one of the international arbitors of F.I.D. in which capacity he was also well known to many visiting foreign players, who regarded him as a wise friend and counsellor, as well as a firm but strictly impartial referee. His loss will be mourned by thousands of local players in the Midlands among whom he was universally popular.

Harry was a former President of the Midland Counties Chess Union, The Birmingham & District Chess League, and The Wolverhampton & District Chess League. He had been Chairman of these and many other committees, too numerous to include them here. His guidance and advice which was given freely was sought by many. I for one respected both, as did many more. On a journey to attend one of the many meetings, he told me he sat on 38 committees.

Harry learned how to play chess at Wednesbury Boys School, when C.S. Kipping was Headmaster. Harry started his playing career as a member of Walsall Chess Club, and later joined West Bromwich Chess Club, where he played in both Birmingham and Wolverhampton Leagues, County Matches for Staffordshire, and any other matches that were around. He was the first winner of The Rock Cup, which is the individual championship of the W.D.C.L 40 years ago. This was only one of his many successes. In later years he transferred back to Walsall Kipping Chess Club. Over the last few years he only played in matches when the club was a player short, but still gave a very good account of himself.

When the Staffordshire Chess Association decided in 1963 to hold a congress, Harry was proposed as chairman of the committee to run it. He still held that post on October 16th. I had just taken over as congress secretary and will do my very best to keep the congress going, in company with the other members. We are intending to commemorate Harry's name with the congress.

Harry gave his services to chess very freely, and it was his willingness to do this that in some small way contributed to his death, he felt he was too busy to give time to seek medical help when he needed it, until it was too late.

STAFFORD CHESS ASSOCIATION

Our last trip to a meeting together was on October 8th. It was fairly obvious to me he was not well. I had known Harry for over 40 years, and my request made to him as to, how are you Harry, produced the expected reply. "I am alright". This was typical of Harry. I have endeavoured to give a summary of a man who was a friend to me and many chess players, he will be greatly missed.

May I on behalf of you all, offer the deepest condolences to Harry's mother and family, who will receive a copy of this obituary.

Graham Humphreys.

In 1978 Leo who was a very active member of parish life in Brewood, decided he wished to learn how to play chess. Within two years he helped to start Brewood Chess Circle and a few months later became their secretary.

Whilst the newly formed club was struggling for recognition in the Wolverhampton Chess League, Leo had to learn the rules required for playing in the League. He kept the Brewood Chess Circle well advised of the correct procedures, striving to promote membership and to keep the club on the right lines.

He did this with a great degree of success. Brewood have finished top of both the winter and summer divisions over the past few years.

Leo was one of the very few club secretaries in the county who attended the Annual General Meeting. This showed that he took his job as secretary somewhat more seriously than some.

Leo is going to be missed by his fellow club members. He was known and respected. Due to his efforts and friendship to all, by many officers, captains, and players throughout the Wolverhampton Chess League. Leo organised several events at the Brewood Chess Circle, and they all went off very well, I feel sure that the fact Brewood have decided to take in junior players goes well for their future. I am sure that Leo was behind it.

May I on behalf of all who knew Leo, offer condolences to his wife and family.
